Oil Strikers Riot; N. Y. Tieup Ended

By the Associated Press

A critical oil industry strike moved swiftly toward a showdown today as labor disputes across the nation kept more than 420,000 away from work. Building service workers and elevator operators, whose six-day-old strike had paralyzed a vital part of Manhattan's business and cost millions of dollars, were ordered to return to work immediately today after both sides complied with a request by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey that their differences be mediated.

At Whiting, Ind., CIO pickets, massed shoulder to shoulder and with automobiles, bumper to bumper on streets approaching entrances to the huge Standard Oil refinery, forced the plant into a gradual shutdown.

Mayor James McNamara called all Whiting police and firemen to duty and appealed to Sheriff Fred Stultz of Lake County for aid in coping with any emergency.

It was the last refinery operating in the northwest Indiana oil area, all others having been closed previously by the strike of the CIO Oil Workers' International Union. The Standard refinery produced 2,500,000 gallons of gasoline a day, about half the production of the entire area.

Company officials in Chicago called the CIO picketing "an illegal road block," and said they had asked Whiting police and the Lake County Sheriff's office to take proper legal action.

The police estimated 2000 pickets with hundreds of automobiles surrounded the plant but said there had been no violence.

Some 4500 of 5100 production employes of the refinery represented by an independent union refused to strike and are entering binding arbitration on a 30 per cent wage rate increase demand, like that of the CIO.

However, the independent union decided not to try to break the CIO picket line.

In Washington where government-sponsored conciliation conferences between the CIO union and oil industry representatives resumed under direct supervision of Labor Secretary Schwellenbach, O. A. Knight, union president, announced signing of a contract with Wilshire Oil Co., Los Angeles, calling for the demanded 30 per cent boost in wage rates. Knight said it was the nation's largest independent oil company.

Also in Washington John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' chieftain, renewed his offer to discuss with soft coal operators a dispute over recognition of a foremen's union which has halted work at more than 80 West Virginia and Pennsylvania mines. The operators yesterday flatly rejected Lewis' proposal for a Monday conference.

In La Grange, Ill., a Chicago suburb, General Motors' electromotive division, manufacturing Diesel-electric engines and employing 7500, was closed after a strike on the night shift by the CIO-United Automobile Workers.

Labor Disputes Hit Ford, Shoe Plants

Unsettled labor conditions in Massachusetts spread today to include an automobile plant and a shoe factory. Meanwhile, in New Bedford, the Independent Loomfixers Union reported it had conducted a secret ballot to determine if its workers should return to their jobs in nine textile mills, and in Whitinsville a contract dispute which had caused a four-day strike of 350 employes of the Whitin Machine Co. was reported settled.

Members of the CIO United Auto Workers' Union at the Ford assembly plant in Somerville voted 612 to 8 to demand a strike poll. The poll was asked by UAW national officials, who said the Somerville plant is the only Ford unit in the nation now operating.

Employes of the General Body and Hoist Co., Everett, will take a similar strike poll Monday.

In Whitman 12 welters walked out of the Regal Shoe Co. in a dispute over contract duties, and their walkout halted work in one department.

Strike of CIO Oil Workers' Union employes at the Waltham and Cambridge plants of the Shell Oil Co. continued today after Gen. Charles H. Cole, chairman of the State Conciliation Board, reported labor and management representatives remained deadlocked after another State House conference.

Police Focus on All-Day Parkers

Deputy Police Superintendent James J. Hinchey announced today that police traffic squads were concentrating their tagging activities in downtown areas where congestion has been created by overtime parking.

He said no special drive was being conducted, but that officers were attempting to break traffic bottlenecks created by the practice of motorists in shifting their cars from one spot to another in the same area to avoid being tagged for overtime parking.

As a result, he said, an all-day parking situation was created by these cars, forcing trucks making deliveries in those areas to park in double lines and creating traffic congestion.

Allies Speed Jap Disarming; Move to Quell Wide Unrest

By The Associated Press

Allied commanders speed the disarmament of enemy troops in Japan and China today and rushed their own forces into turbulent areas of southeast Asia still occupied by Nipponese soldiers, who made scant effort to halt rioting native Nationalists.

More than 1,800,000 Jap soldiers have been disarmed in the home islands. Another 34,000 were demobilized in the Hankow-Wuchang-Hanyang area of China.

French troops abroad two warships rushed toward Indo-China, where Annamites have rioted spasmodically for weeks against return of French rule. The 35,000-ton battleship Richelieu hit a magnetic mine on the way but suffered little damage.

The British prepared to start occupation tomorrow of Java and Sumatra, richest islands of the Netherlands East Indies, whose natives threatened to fight if landing parties included Dutch troops.

China demanded Siam explain recent Siamese-Chinese clashes in Bangkok, and influential Chungking newspapers called for Allied control of the pro-Jap government of Siam.

Chungking sources said lack of details still blocked an agreement between China's Nationalist and Communist leaders, despite reports from Moscow that everything was settled.

On Japan's home front, Gen. MacArthur ordered the Tokyo government to cease all attempts to control newspapers and radios. His order followed a home ministry attempt to ban newspapers for publishing American interviews with Emperor Hirohito and stories and pictures of Hirohito's visit to MacArthur.

MacArthur's officers admitted danger of actual starvation in Japan was "very real" but said no attempt would be made to supply food without word from Washington.

Japan was directed to put its shipyards on a 24-hour basis to produce ships necessary to import foodstuffs and return troops from Asia. Eight ship were released to transport soldiers home from two nearby islands.

3 Pin All Brutality on 'Beast'

By WILLIAM FRYE

LUENEBURG, Germany, Sept. 29 (AP)—Three prosecution witnesses declared in succession today beatings, brutality and hunger were instituted at the Belsen concentration camp by Josef Kramer, "beast" of that horrorhole.

Winding up the second week of the war crimes trial of the camp commandant and 44 SS guards, witnesses said conditions at Belsen were relatively decent before Kramer took over last December.

Witnesses included Ruta Klein, Esterа Guterman and Paula Zynger, former internees at both Belsen and Oswiecim, where Kramer had served.

They identified Helena Kopper as a Polish internee who sold out, became a block leader at Belsen and rivalled the German guards in cruelty.

Miss Klein, who was 18 when she was arrested at her home in Poland in December, 1942, and moved to Oswiecim, identified 10 of the prisoners in the dock.

She said she had once been selected to go to the gas chamber. She testified she begged Franz Hessler, who supervised the selection, to spare her, but he replied:

"You have lived long enough. Come, my child, come."

Hessler directed her to a table where numbers of the selected internees were recorded, but she slipped away and escaped observation. Miss Klein told the court. Hessler, she said, failed to recognize her in subsequent encounters.

Few witnesses remained to be called by the prosecution, but reading of affidavits into the record may take several days.

There were indications the defense might call each defendant in his own defense.

Inez's First Globe Hop Day Thrills

By INEZ ROBB
Staff Correspondent of Boston American and International News Service in World Flight

ABOARD WORLD-CIRCLING GLOBESTER, Sept. 29—A world telescoped into the dimensions of a six-day bicycle race unreeled itself beneath this giant transport plane today, with stop No. 2 on its epic globe-girdling flight making history at tiny Santa Maria island in the Azores. Thirty minutes later we're off for Casablanca.

Right on schedule, the big ship inaugurating regular around-the-world passenger traffic landed at Santa Maria from Bermuda, the object being two-fold—fuel for the plane's engines and food for its thrill-filled human cargo.

This is an experimental affair, to be sure. But so far every inch has been solid comfort and convenience, even though we are definitely listed as guinea pigs—and I am No. 8.

We went through our first physical and psychological tests on the way to Bermuda from Washington last evening. These are to be given daily to determine whether such a trip as this is calculated to make oldsters out of us before our time.

Col. M. S. White, the ATC flight surgeon aboard, already has put us through our medical paces. He recorded our blood pressure, pulse and temperature at 9000 feet while hurtling at 180 miles an hour.

Then each of us had to step up and down on one of the Globester's seats for a few minutes, after which the doc again took our pulse and blood pressure. All O. K.

By the time we get back to the national capital, at midnight next Thursday, I probably will have gotten up and down about as much as a GI listening to a broken record of the national anthem.

At 10:45 p. m. after it had guzgled Bermuda gasoline, the Globester took off from Kindley Field for Santa Maria.

Our first night aboard the Douglas airliner was spent with all the comforts of home. For this our thanks go to Col White, who, I am convinced is going to be my hero on this trip.

The colonel had seven air mattresses placed aboard, and his task is to see how comfortable the passengers can be made—this is for future records on passenger handling when these flights become commonplace.

So far, our trip has been running smoothly, carrying out the prediction of Lt. Gen. Harold L. George, ATC commanding general. He told the crowd at the Washington airport before we left that future flights such as ours will be "as simple as dispatching a train from Washington to New York."

The next passangers will have a little more time to take in the scenery. We're seeing the world but only from a bird's standpoint.

Members of the crew for the first leg of our trip include Capt. John F. Oblinger, pilot, from Toledo, O. He is regularly assigned to the ATC "Crescent Route" between the United States and India.

Others I see are Capt. Maxwell E. Pitcher, Tulsa Okla., co-pilot; Lt. James P. Sadesky, St. Joseph, Mo., navigator; T-Sgt. Irving H. Sandler, Brooklyn, N. Y., radio operator, and Sgt. Williard L. Williams, Beattie, Kan., flight engineer.

Additional members of the cast who will figure in this drama long after the first act are my press colleagues, Frederick Othman of the United Press and Paul Miller of the Associated Press, and other all-the-way passengers like Col. White, Col. C. B. Allen, operations officer; Maj. James Speer, priorities and traffic officer; Capt. Philip Warth, Washington National Airport public relations officer, and Clinton Porter, War Department civilian photographer.

Mrs. William E. Borah, widow of the late senator from Idaho, presented me with a tiny gold elephant which is guaranteed to make the fates kind to us. Mrs. Borah said the late senator always carried the symbol in his pocket.

Excuse me for a moment; I had to take time out to try on the "Mae West," a yellow life preserver which looks like a cross between a bib and a horse-collar until it is inflated.

I am not supposed to inflate it unless an emergency arises, but I am tempted—yes, sorely tempted—to yank the little cords that will give me a facade like Mae's.

R. I. Foster Dad Unheard of in Manila Flight

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 29—What became of M-Sgt. Robert Dudley, who cabled his wife a week ago he was flying home from the Philippines to help her in her court fight to keep their tiny adopted son from reclamation by his repentent natural mother?

The question was uppermost in the mind of his wife, who today was assembling the child's toys to send to the home of his true mother, legal victor, Mrs. Marita Leach of Lafayette st., Fall River.

Army officers here, at LaGuardia Field, New York, and San Francisco had no knowledge of Sgt. Dudley.

Today Mrs. Leach had not called at the Dudley home to claim her child as she was entitled to do under the "flesh-and-blood" verdict of Judge Louis Cappelli.

The jurist had instructed her counsel, James J. McAleer, and Mrs. Dudley's attorney John P. Cooney Jr., to arrange for the child's transfer.

Neither lawyer would state today when the baby would be restored to his mother.

As the foster mother walked around in her home wee John toddled after her, proud of his progress in walking and chirping about it.

Meanwhile the State welfare department, social agencies and the Florence Crittenton League were receiving many anxious queries from foster parents who wanted to know if the decision imperiled their retention of children they had grown to love.

Bolting Horse Fells 2 Roxbury Children

Two 5-year-old children were at City Hospital today with scalp wounds and concussions, suffered when they were knocked down by a bolting horse as they played near their Roxbury homes.

The two victims are Eleanor Thistle of Lenox st. and Robert Holland of Fellows st. The horse, owned by James R. Lynch of West Third st., South Boston, dashed from a junkyard into the street when bitten by another horse.

Saugus Mother Killed in Crash

Mrs. Mary Farley, 35-year-old mother of two sets of twins, of Golden Hills rd., Saugus, was killed and her companion, Mrs. Elizabeth Rice, 26, also of Golden Hills rd., was critically injured in a head-on collision on the Newburyport turnpike early today.

Two Wakefield youths, occupants of the other car, were less seriously hurt. They are Joseph M. Hartshorne, 19, and Robert O. Smith, 18, both of Park ave., Wakefield.

Both youths and Mrs. Rice were taken to Lynn Hospital in a Saugus police ambulance. Mrs. Rice suffered a fractured skull and lacerations. Her name was on the danger list.

Hartshorne was arrested charged with operating under the influence of liquor, and a police guard was placed at his bedside. He and Smith suffered only minor injuries, physicians said.

MRS. MARY FARLEY
Dead in Auto Crash

MRS. ELIZABETH RICE
Seriously Injured

The accident happened at the intersection of Metropolitan ave. and the turnpike. The two women were returning home from the Saugus open air theater and were turning into the turnpike, police reported. Both cars overturned and were demolished.

Mrs. Farley's body was found 46 feet from the scene. Mrs. Rice was thrown 21 feet.

Police said the engine of the Rice car was thrown 50 feet

Lazy Use It, Too

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 29 (INS)—A special hand washing machine designed to help returned veterans who lost an arm has turned out to be a popular gadget with lazy folks with both arms intact at the Carboloy Co. plant, a Detroit General Electric affiliate.

The gadget substitutes for the veteran's missing hand, soaping, scrubbing and rinsing with virtually no effort by him.

Pair Admit Taxi Driver Holdup

Picked out of the police lineup by their victims, two South Boston men today admitted they slugged and robbed Nathan Lightman, Dorchester taxicab driver, one of the many drivers overpowered in the wave of holdups, kidnapings and car thefts.

Lightman, swathed in bandages, pointed to the pair as the men who took $8 from him and forced him into the back seat while they raced through Roxbury streets. He was injured when he leaped from the cab just before it crashed into a pole.

Police held the suspects for questioning in connection with the series of crimes which was climaxed by a $1000 holdup in the Mulrad Tavern, Columbia rd., Dorchester, and the robbery of $522 from a Somerville grocery.

Two men posing as bartenders staged the Dorchester tavern stickup.

Two Negroes flagged the taxi of George S. Perry of Queensberry st., Back Bay, in City sq., Charlestown, and asked to be driven to Second st., in Everett. En route, one held a knife at his throat while the other bound him hand and foot. After robbing him of $17 they threw him out and fled.

The cab was found abandoned later today in Sterling st., Roxbury, and police examined it for fingerprints.

Cambridge police found Philip Nicolette, taxi driver, of Lovell st., East Boston, unconscious in a parking lot in First st., near the East Cambridge Courthouse. He had been robbed of his wallet and $62

Frosts to Follow 86 Heat Record

Breaking the 16-year-old record for this date by two degrees, the mercury climbed to 86 at 2:30 this afternoon shortly before heavy clouds rolled in from the northwest and ended a fine September day.

Showers began and dropping temperatures were predicted for tonight and Sunday. The mercury was expected to reach a low of 45 tonight.

Job Bill Fate Up to House

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Broadly revised, the full employment bill traveled today from the Senate to a yes-and-no reception in the House. There 114 members stood organized as co-indorsers to shove through the measure which the Senate approved, 71 to 10.

But after a week of hearings, Chairman Manasco (D.) of Alabama, of the House committee on executive expenditures, said: "This is a vague bill." Questioning by committee members of witnesses who liked the idea has been largely hostile.

Manasco said he expects to continue hearings for several more weeks.

The heart of the bill:

1—Declares that all Americans "able to work and seeking to work are entitled to an opportunity for useful, remunerative, regular, and full-time employment, including agriculture, industry, self-employment and the professions."

2—Directs an annual survey of job prospects; when this shows that private enterprise would not supply enough jobs, the government would move, in ways to be approved by Congress, to supply jobs.

Administration leaders in the Senate showed no great happiness at the final shape of the measure.

The Administration had defeated in the banking committee two major amendments which won out in the rough and tumble of Senate debate.

Offered by Sens. Taft (R.) of Ohio and Radcliffe (D.) of Maryland, they provide:

1—Federal spending under the employment program shall be consistent with the government's needs, obligations and other essential considerations of national policy.

2—Plans for federal spending to create jobs must be accompanied by a plan for taxes to raise the money.

Taft triumphantly hailed the first as a victory over "the Henry Wallace school of thought" which he described as one of unlimited federal spending to make up unemployment shortages.

KING, LEAHY KNIGHTED

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP)—King George VI has named Adms. King and Leahy as knights of the Grand Cross of the military division of the Order of the Bath, for "distinguished services rendered to the allied cause."

16 German PWs Land Off Ship Bringing Yanks

Sixteen stolid Germans, one an elderly white-bearded man, came down the gangplank of the S. S. Bienville at Commonwealth Pier today under custody of military police, while many of 2056 troops aboard joined in satirical shouts of "Heil Hitler" or sang "The Fuehrer's Face."

Ten of the Germans were uniformed men, Army and Navy prisoners of war. The rest, including the bearded man, were civilians. The Army would disclose only that all were technicians brought here for specific purposes.

MPs ushered them into a bus for an undisclosed destination. The Germans were to be turned over to the First Service Command.

As the soldiers began to disembark, a high wind blew down the giant "Welcome Home" arch, entangling PFC Frank Alex of Pittsburgh in the wreckage. MPs, officers and GI Joes struggled with the wreckage to discover if any soldiers were under it, but Alex was the only man injured and he managed to board the train for Camp Myles Standish.

There were 153 New England men aboard the ship. Most of the returnees were in the medical units, air force or infantry.

Wainwright to Head Eastern Command

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Bataan liberated recently from the Japanese, is to head the Eastern Defense Command of the United States after a rest at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Headquarters are in New York city. Wainwright's jurisdiction will include the whole country except California, Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Utah and Arizona. The command also includes Army bases in Newfoundland, Greenland, Iceland and Bermuda.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I am expecting a baby shortly. After its birth, who applies for the additional allotment, myself or husband? Where would I apply, if possible. Husband is in the Marines, somewhere in the Pacific? R. B. L., Boston.

A—Application may be obtained at the Marine Corps Rehabilitation Office, located in the Federal Building, Boston. You must also obtain a birth certificate of baby. You are qualified to file application.

(Ed. Note: E. G. G., Somerville; suggest that you take matter up with a legal adviser such as the Legal Aid Society, Ashburton pl., Boston, Mass., (rear of State House). They have a staff which is ready to serve veterans. My opinion is that you have right to regain apartment.)

Q—I was drafted when 39 years old and later released to enter a war plant June 5, 1943, after 7 months service. I requested the release. I was given an honorable discharge from Enlisted Reserve Corps, March 13, 1945. Am I eligible for mustering-out pay? J. F. M., Cambridge.

A—In your case not entitled to mustering-out pay benefit. Army regulations at time of release from service prevented you from being eligible, due to own request to enter war work. Those seeking discharge now from service, due to age, are eligible to receive mustering-out pay.

Q—Could you tell me if I should send Xmas Boxes to my son attached to the 4th Marine Div., now at a rest camp in Hawaii. He was wounded in Iwo Jima. Do you think his outfit will be returned before then? H. A., East Dedham.

A—According to latest information he should be returning from the Pacific before Christmas. First Marines to head home will be those hospitalized. His outfit among those to be returned as soon as occupation arrangements have been completed.

Q—My husband has gone A. W. O. L. twice during wartime. At present he is serving a sentence for second offense. He tells me he will receive $600 when he is discharged. I would like to know if his discharge will be honorable or a "bad conduct" discharge. Will he receive any benefits under the GI Bill as this will mean a lot to me? K. C., Dorchester.

A—It depends upon what the court martial sentence was. It will not be honorable under above conditions. Chances are it might be "Bad Conduct" or even dishonorable. If it is the latter he will not receive any GI benefits. The $600 he claims upon release is possibly back pay due him while he was on active duty under honorable conditions. That is prior to his offense.

1 DEAD IN HARBOR CRASH

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (INS)—One man was killed and another is missing in the collision of a water taxi launch and a tugboat in New York bay today. Six other passengers in the marine taxi were rescued after they were spilled.

GERMAN PUP ARRIVES—"Schnapps," 6 weeks old offspring of a German sentry dog, is fondled by (l. to r.) Gerald Pisapia, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Alfred Pulverenti, of Providence, R. I., who brought the animal home on the SS Chapel Hill Victory. They docked at Commonwealth Pier. INP by Bruce McLean

3 Days Adrift Horror Told

HAVERHILL, Sept. 29—Lester H. Gauvin, 38, was recuperating today at his Webster st. home, following rescue from a disabled dory in which he had drifted helplessly for three days and two nights and from which his companion had fallen and drowned.

Gauvin, who with Edward T. Ryan, 42, local manufacturer, had started early Tuesday from Plum Island for a fishing trip, was picked up off York Beach, Me., suffering from hunger, thirst and lack of sleep.

Gauvin told how the motor stalled when they were far from shore and the boat drifted out to sea, lashed by heavy waves and carried by swift currents.

"Ryan," Gauvin said, "tried to start the motor by means of a pull cord, repeating the operation until he was exhausted. I suggested he rest awhile and let me try it. With my back turned to him I began cranking. In a few minutes I heard a splash and turned to see that Ed had fallen out.

"Warning me not to jump into the heavy-running sea, he called to me to try and maneuver the boat toward him. I grabbed an oar and tried vainly to reach him. He was fighting a losing battle as the distance between us lengthened, and five minutes later he disappeared."

Gauvin then described the tortures he underwent and his efforts to attract boats and planes by day and night. He told how, after dark, he had smoked cigarets one after the other and waved the lighted end in the hope of attracting attention. Failing, he fastened his white shirt to a mast, but the wind blew it away.

"The second night I was really tired and weak from lack of food, water and sleep.

"Thursday at daybreak I saw the shoreline in the distance, and the boat finally drifted to a point near York Beach, but I could not maneuver it any closer.

"Finally a fisherman, Harry Moore of York, Me., saw me and came out for me."

Ryan leaves his widow, four children of whom two sons are in service; his parents and a sister, Mrs. Clarice Tonis of New York.

Set Clock Back!

The nation changes from war to standard time tomorrow for the first time in three years.

Don't forget, before you retire tonight, to set your clocks and watches BACK one hour.

The time change becomes official at 2 a. m. If you set your timepieces BACK an hour before you go to bed you will be in time with the world when you arise.

Hotel Thieves Get $795 From Two GIs

Two soldiers, recently returned from Europe, reported to police today that their "going home" money, totaling $795, was stolen from their clothing while they were asleep in a downtown hotel.

Daniel Phelan of New York city and Norman Ray of Lyndhurst, N. J., said they slept in adjoining rooms and left the doors unlocked.

PUPPY LOST—Grieving over the loss of his pet black cocker spaniel puppy, Ronald D. Bourque, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, Beldon st., Dorchester, waits in his home for the dog's return. The animal is named Stubby.

Son Killed, Mother Will Aid Buddies

Despite the re-awakening of her own personal tragedy, a Gold Star mother who realizes what it means to a serviceman to be lonely and far away from home on Christmas Day is one of the latest to enroll in the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas campaign.

The campaign is sponsored by the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser.

"Please send me the name and address of a chaplain," she writes, "so that I may send a Christmas package to some man overseas. You see, I am a Gold Star mother. I lost my only son last October. He was killed in Germany, at the age of 20.

"Last October I sent many packages overseas to my son. But he never received them. He was looking forward to Christmas, and to getting these packages. But they never reached him. They were being returned to me for months afterward. I shall be glad to do now what my son would want me to do."

Because the time is so short—you have only until Oct. 15 to mail Christmas boxes to all service men and women overseas—it is important that you enroll now in this campaign, and prepare at once your gifts for some lonely soldier or sailor, Marine or Coast Guardsman, who might otherwise be forgotten on Christmas Day overseas.

All packages this year are being mailed direct to chaplains in every Navy base and in every Army division overseas.

The chaplains will deliver these packages directly to the boys in their respective outfits, either in the Atlantic or Pacific areas. Do not send a package to an individual serviceman this year unless you are certain he will be stationed overseas at Christmas. Remember, hundreds of thousands are on their way home, or will be by the holiday season.

Fill out and mail the coupon accompanying this article. By return mail you will receive a label bearing the name of a chaplain to whom your Christmas box may be sent direct.

Elliott Roosevelts Get Rent Free

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29 (AP)—Elliott Roosevelt and Faye Emerson, his actress wife, are occupying rent free the Beverly Hills home of Grenville W. Stratton, wealthy industrialist, Stratton stated in a deposition on file today.

Answering his wife's separate maintenance suit, Stratton said he invited the Roosevelts to occupy the home last May, while Mrs. Stratton was ill in a hospital.

Mrs. Stratton charged that her husband, owner of the Circle S racing stable, refused to pay hospital bills of $11,000 and wasted community assets.

J. J. Regan, Hibernian Head, Is Dead at 78

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 29 (AP)—James J. Regan, 7, Catholic leader and national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, died yesterdaay after a brief illness.

From 1906 to 1914 he served both as vice president and president of the Hibernians and had been vice president of the American Federation of Catholic Societies. His widow, a son and three daughters survive.

Shrine Potentate In Hospital Drive

Plans for gaining wider public recognition of the 15 Shrine hospitals for crippled children and for enlisting the organization's 450,000 members in the drive for full employment will be discussed tonight by William H. Woodfield, Jr., of San Francisco, imperial potentate of the Shrine of North America.

William H. Woodfield, Jr.

Woodfield will be principal speaker at a banquet to be given in his honor at the Copley Plaza Hotel by Aleppo Temple of Boston. He arrived in Boston today after attending the annual meeting of the Northeastern Shrine at Concord, N. H.

"Getting jobs for our veterans is a fraternal obligation," he said today. "Virtually every business and professional leader is a member of some club, organization or fraternal order. It is a grave responsibility the Shrine does not intend to shirk.

"As for the Shrine hospitals, tolerance always has been the keystone of these institutions. For the children are admitted without regard to race, creed or color. Of the 100,000 cases which have been healed or greatly improved in the past 20 years, relatively few have been children of Shriners."

Kidnap Suspect To Return Here

Accused of kidnaping two Revere children and transporting them to Maine, Ralph A. Frisco, 39, of Portland, Me., who surrendered there when he learned he was sought on a fugitive warrant by FBI agents and police, was ready today to waive extradition and return to answer the charge.

Lt. Philip A. Gallo and Insp. James Foley of the Revere police were in Portland to appear at Frisco's arraignment and will bring him back if he formally waives his rights under the extradition laws.

Portland police said the two children, Angela, 3, and Donna, 1, daughters of Mrs. Geraldine Boure of Beach st., Revere, were found at the Portland home of their father, John N. Boure, World War I and II veteran, where Frisco had taken them.

Mrs. Boure, who moved to Revere recently from Union Park st., South End, told police that Frisco confronted her near her home and took the children away in a taxi after threatening her.

Frisco denies the kidnap charge and told Capt. Harry B. Powers of the Portland police he had merely acted to return the children to their father, in the belief that Mrs. Boure was unable to give them proper care since separating from her husband in June.

Capt. Powers said that Boure had substantially corroborated Frisco's story.

MacKENZIE KING IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The White House said today Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada will arrive in Washington tonight and will see President Truman tomorrow morning.

Students Strike In Argentine

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 29 (AP)—University students in Buenos Aires, Santa Fe and Cordoba have announced a general student strike against the state of siege imposed by the Argentine military regime.

(BBC in London quoted Montevideo radio as saying "more than 3000 persons were in jail" in Buenos Aires, and "at Villa Devoto, common criminals had to be removed to make room for political prisoners."

Ballet Theater

Two world premieres and the presentation of the two-act ballet, "Giselle," by its foremost living interpreters, Markova and Dolin, at Monday night's opening performance lend lustre to next week's engagement of the Ballet Theater.

Additionally interesting to ballet lovers is the presence of Andre Eglevsky, classical dancer, who will be seen at every performance.

The world premieres take place Thursday and Friday nights. "On Stage!" with music by Norman Dello Joio, choreography by Michael Kidd and settings and costumes by Oliver Smith, will be the Thursday night offering. On the following night, "The Gift of the Magi," a new work by Simon Semenoff with a score by Boston's Lukas Foss, will be previewed with Mr. Foss conducting.

Other works new to Boston include Antony Tudor's "Undertow," the first psychological murder ballet with a score by William Schuman; Bronislava Nijinska's pastoral, "Harvest Time," to the music of Wieniawski, and David Lichine's "Helen of Troy," to Johann Strauss melodies, adapted by Antal Dorati.

The engagement is limited to a single week, the final local appearance of the company this season taking place next Saturday night.

Amazing Pinocchio Now at Majestic

Mischievous Pinocchio listens to Jiminy Cricket preach from his Jack-in-the-Pulpit perch on the virtues of being a good boy during the unreeling of Walt Disney's "Wonderful Adventures of Pinocchio," now showing on the Majestic, Old South and Tremont screens.

Among the hit tunes of hit-parade caliber that embellish the "Wonderful Adventures of Pinocchio" are "When You Wish Upon A Star," "Give A Little Whistle" and "Got No Strings."

Alterations Out as Hub Develops Sized-To-Height Dresses

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

SO YOU THINK YOU'RE HARD TO FIT? Always had to have alterations perpetrated on a cute little dress number . . . never could walk out of a store, not even once, in a dress as it was made. Had to have the waistline upped or downed . . . the hemline similarly revamped? Well, girls, our worries are over . . . and Boston can take credit for instituting a manufacturing innovation that bids fair to revolutionize the dress industry.

Many new developments have come out of the war . . . improvements to enhance the loveliness of living . . . to increase our leisure . . . so, perhaps, it was only natural that from servicing uniforms to our women in the armed forces should come a new perfected fit formula in misses' dresses . . . a sized-to-height formula that embodied every kind of figure fancy.

This sized-to-height dress discovery is practiced in a budget line and therefore available to all. For instance, it has been proved that a woman may require a size 14 and be 4 feet 11 inches in height or 5 feet 11 inches in height . . . the difference in the shape, silhouette and contour of American women therefore necessitating a revised sizing system.

The particular theory followed in the production of dresses sized-to-height divides each side group into three height variations. The "short" is for the woman 5 feet 3 inches and less . . . the "medium" is for the woman 5 feet 3½ inches to 5 feet 6½ inches . . . and the "tall" is for the woman 5 feet 7 inches and taller. And, don't think that style has been forfeited in this new size typing. One of the country's top designers served as consultant in perfecting the first collection of these fine rayon crepes . . . all made in fashion-accepted colors. The styling is young and silhouettes are simple as you can see by the accompanying photographs.

A friend of ours who is 5 ft. 10 in. tall and weighs about 160 modeled one of these new silhouettes for us. She got into a "tall" 18 . . . and walked out in perfect fit and fashion-right smartness . . . and for only $8.95.

At the fashion-show at which this sized-to-height collection was launched . . . fashion editors and manufacturers alike agreed that here, at last, is an innovation which Miss America has been waiting for . . . a dress within her means, ready to wear and up to the minute in style detail. Boston may well be proud.

MARY, JANE and JILL may all be a size 14 but their height and silhouette outline may demand different placements . . . hence the new sized-to-height dress which assures perfect fit and tosses alteration annoyances out of the window . . . especially when a date is in the offing and time is of the essence. Here is a fashion-smart model . . . a brown rayon crepe with aqua front that features a corded floral applique with gold nailheads and slash pockets . . . a Murray White achievement.

Fashion

HEAVEN BLUE applique scrolled on brown rayon crepe . . . and winding up each side of the bodice . . . also on the pockets . . . is interesting fashion treatment of this sized-to-height model that is sleek coverage for any figure . . by Murray White.

THE "LITTLE BLACK DRESS" . . . so important in any wardrobe . . . but in this instance sized to height for perfect fit to any woman, short or tall . . . features pointed detail on the front peplum and sleeves and silver buttons lending the extra dramatic touch for fashion's sake.

Inviting Prospective Bridegroom-to-Be

I am planning to give a bridal shower for a friend of mine. Several people have told me that I should invite the prospective bridegroom. Is this proper?
S. H.

If to your shower you are inviting only girl friends of the bride-to-be, you don't invite the prospective bridegroom to the shower, but you may ask him to drop in toward the end of the party.

The Bride's Mother At Formal Wedding

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: My daughter will have a morning church wedding . . . formal, military. Would it be correct for me to wear a gray pencil-stripe suit? I wonder if this would be correct? S. S.

Since your daughter's wedding is to be a formal one, you should, to be consistent, wear a dress of formal length . . . a long dress of dinner-type design, long-sleeved if you wish, of your most becoming color (not too dark a shade), with a hat that harmonizes with your dress, and with other accessories most carefully chosen. Or you may wear an ensemble, long dinner-type dress with matching or contrasting very short jacket or bolero.

Something New in Chicken Pie Contributes to Happy Home Menu

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

"UNTIL FURTHER notice . . ." is the usually dire phrase that for this once brings good news. It is addressed to family dinner tables in the form of more chicken for that Sunday chicken pie. The Army, if you please, has advised chicken processors that "until further notice" no more purchases of dressed chicken will be made. That means, of course, that at this moment men in camps in this country are surrounded by larders well stocked with chicken.

Chicken pie is a happy menu thought for any mid-week dinner without waiting for an auspicious week-end. No need for bothering with crust making either, if you don't want to. After the stew of chicken, carrots, and diced potatoes is done and the gravy thickened with flour, pour the whole into a baking dish or large casserole. Top with fluffy mashed potatoes and put under the broiler flame just long enough to brown this potato crust.

BRUNSWICK STEW

1 fowl (3 lb.) cut in pieces
Boiling water 1 tsp. salt
¼ cup chopped onion
1½ cups green lima beans
2 cups canned tomatoes
1½ cups sweet corn
Dash of pepper
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Cover chicken with hot water and cook 1½ hours; add salt, onion, lima beans and tomatoes, and cook ½ hour longer. Remove chicken, pick meat from bone and chop fine; return to stew, add corn, pepper and Worcestershire sauce, and cook until thick. Makes 6 servings.

CHICKEN-OYSTER SHORTCAKE

1 recipe cornbread
2 cups medium white sauce
1 cup diced cooked chicken
8 oysters
Butter
Dash of paprika
Pimiento

Bake cornbread in 8 x 12-inch pan as directed. When bread is nearly baked, prepare white sauce, add chicken and heat thoroughly. Cut oysters in halves and saute in ½ tbsp. butter about 3 minutes; add to creamed chicken, season with additional salt and pepper, if needed, add paprika, and keep hot. Cut hot cornbread in 4-inch squares, split and spread with butter; then put chicken-oyster filling between pieces and on top of cornbread; garnish with strips of pimiento. Makes 6 servings.

CORNBREAD

3-4 cup sifted flour
1 1-2 cups yellow cornmeal
¼ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt; 2 tbsp. sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1¼ cups milk
1-4 cup shortening, melted.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine eggs and milk, and add to flour mixture, stirring until well mixed; stir in shortening. Turn into greased, shallow pan, 8x12 inches, and bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 30 minutes. Sugar may be omitted, if desired. Makes 6 (4-inch) squares.

SMOTHERED CHICKEN IN MUSHROOM SAUCE

1 4-lb. chicken, cut up
1-4 cup flour; 1 1-2 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. fat or salad oil
1 cup diced celery
1-2 cup diced green pepper
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup; 2 tbsp. water.

Clean chicken, reserving back, neck, wing tips for chicken broth. Combine flour and salt, and place in a paper bag with remaining pieces of chicken. Shake until the chicken is well coated with the flour mixture. Heat the fat in a covered deep skillet, and brown the chicken in it. Add the celery, green pepper, and soup and water which have been combined. Cover and simmer over low heat for one hour, or until chicken is tender. Turn chicken occasionally during the cooking. Makes 4 servings.

The Hearst Newspapers long ago called for *in*vincible U.S. AIR POWER

New York American, March 12, 1937

"Whatever is right can be acnieved through the irresistible power of awakened and informed public opinion. Our object, therefore, is not to enquire whether a thing can be done, but whether it ought to be done, and if it ought to be done, to so exert the forces of publicity that public opinion will compel it to be done."

W. R. Hearst

In 1910 the Hearst Newspapers predicted that when war broke out flying ships in the air would defeat and destroy fighting ships upon the water.

In 1914 the Hearst Newspapers predicted that aircraft launched from naval vessels might someday destroy great cities.

In 1924 the Hearst Newspapers pointed out that the surest way to peace for America was to build an unbeatable air force.

In 1925 the Hearst Newspapers strongly supported the campaign of the late General "Billy" Mitchell for greater emphasis on military air power.

In 1926 the Hearst Newspapers criticized Army and Navy Brass Hats for failure to develop air strength and strategy.

In 1928 the Hearst Newspapers pointed out the menace to our peace and safety that lay in Germany's great and growing strength in commercial aviation.

In 1934 the Hearst Newspapers again called upon Congress and the Roosevelt administration for the building of a formidable air force.

In 1935 the Hearst Newspapers called our $13,000,000 budget for air defense "hopelessly inadequate."

In 1937 the Hearst Newspapers called attention to the fact that America stood almost at the bottom of the list of great nations in building war planes.

Home Planner—Although paralyzed from the waist down and having no hope of ever walking again, PFC Johnny Chiefe, of Base Hospital 81, Bronx, N. Y., doesn't let it get him down and here he is enthusiastically drawing a sketch of his dream bungalow for his nurse. The 29-year-old veteran was hit by shrapnel in Africa. He plans to take up watchmaking as a trade.

Boston American, Sept. 29—11

AND SO, My Fellow Countrymen, today I report to you that your sons and daughters have served you well and faithfully with the calm, deliberate, determined fighting spirit of the American soldier and sailor. THEY ARE HOMEWARD BOUND—TAKE CARE OF THEM.—GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR.

PARKING LOTS

POLICE COMMISSIONER SULLIVAN says buildings which produce little tax revenue should be torn down and the ground turned into off-street parking lots.

That is the easiest solution, but not necessarily the best one.

Why not a mammoth garage under Boston Common, a currently useless park which could be landscaped, modernized and made truly beautiful?

Why not a chain of conveniently located ramp garages elsewhere in the city?

Why not two or three elevated highways to accommodate thousands of the cars which now clog and clutter our narrow streets?

The promiscuous tearing down of buildings is never wise or profitable because such lax and lazy practices destroy jobs, curtail prosperity and restrict a city's growth.

MORE NURSES

A PLEA to husbands to sacrifice a home-cooked meal once a week so that their wives may serve as Red Cross Volunteers in Greater Boston civilian hospitals has been made by Mrs. Frank G. Allen, chairman of the Nurses' Aide Corps of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter.

The response should equal expectations if it cannot surpass them.

Giving up a meal is worth while if it means better care and more attention for the sick and dying.

Of course, this is a temporary arrangement. Something more practical and permanent must be done if our hospitals are to justify the people's faith in them.

Instead of the present, haphazard method of recruiting and training nurses we should have properly staffed schools and colleges for the purpose in Boston and elsewhere throughout the State.

Furthermore, high schools should establish pre-nursing courses for young women to give them the right foundation for their later education.

Such instruction would be infinitely more worth while than the frilly and faddy subjects which have wasted students' time and taxpayers' money for years.

Nursing is an important profession and should be so regarded by educators and the people.

In many instances, the nurse has much more to do with a patient's recovery than the physician who sees him for five minutes.

WE NEED GOD

BY THE proclamation of Governor Tobin, next week will be dedicated to religious education in Massachusetts.

"The moral and spiritual foundations of our democracy and of all civilization are found in the religious faith and practice of the people," the Governor says.

"The long-sought peace of tomorrow and the reconstruction of a war-devastated world rest upon the vigor and integrity of the spiritual life of our people today.

"The most widespread religious education of our youth becomes, therefore, a necessity if hatred, bigotry and entrenched selfishness, out of which war comes, are to be conquered."

Mr. Tobin is absolutely right. We cannot have enduring peace without God's help.

Fallible human beings, less than twenty centuries removed from the jungle and with many of their jungle traits and characteristics remaining, cannot hope to right the world's wrongs if they rely solely on their own feeble knowledge and power.

Perhaps if those who are trying to repair the damage of this war would find a place at the counsel tables for God and His teachings, their efforts would be easier and their accomplishments greater.

What are you waiting for here, young man?
What are you looking for toward the ridge?
A little straw hat with streaming blue ribbons
Is soon to come dancing over the bridge. —THOMPSON.

NOW, SIR, take the charming woman who became your wife. What was the time and place of your first date with her? What did she have on? You'll probably muff the latter question, but I'll bet she can tell you . . . Open to the public in New York City is a library which has a reference room in which you can smoke. It is the only one I know of granting this privilege . . . "So you think you are too fast for 'Bugs' Baer as a walker around the Central Park reservoir?" writes a New Yorker. "Listen, I've seen Bugs in action and I will bet you five stogies he can beat you by 20 lengths" . . . Innumerable experts are informing me that whisky does not age in a bottle, only in wood. Then, why don't they sell it direct to the public by the keg or barrel?

SAYS HE: A U. S. Army major recently stated it was very difficult nowadays for an intelligent, clean-living man to find intelligent, sensible girls of the type men like to marry. Many feminine subscribers have heatedly disputed this claim. Replying to one of these a former U. S. Army lieutenant writes as follows: "That young woman of Manhattan who says there is no shortage of intelligent, sensible girls of the type men like to marry, only a shortage of places to meet them, does not know whereof she speaks. When in the service I had ample opportunity to meet and observe scores of young women as lovely as Judy Garland. Not in cocktail bars, either, but in private homes, country clubs and other places where one would expect to meet the type under discussion. I am in complete agreement with the major. There is indeed a critical shortage of the species mentioned; that is, the attractive kind."

CIGARS: Some retailers don't know enough about good cigars to be trusted to handle them. Not only are they entirely ignorant as to how cigars should be kept but they commit the unpardonable sin of reaching into a box and handing the cigar to the customer. The box should always be offered to the customer so he can pick out the number of cigars he wants. In fact, I believe it is against the law to pick cigars out of a box and hand them to a customer. If you sell cigars, you'd better check on this.

PASSING BY: Ellin Mackay Berlin. Charming wife of America's No. 1 composer of popular songs. Among the wedding gifts Irving gave Ellin was the rights to his song "All Alone." Don't know how much this has brought in so far but $15,000 was paid for using it in the film "Pride of the Yankees." And $18,500 for using it in the film "Christmas Holiday." Mrs. Berlin also has quite a writing career of her own. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars was paid for the film rights of her novel "The Land I Have Chosen." Then there's Ellin's career as a mother. She has three children.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—What Ziegfeld Follies star quit at the peak of his career to become a policeman in St. Louis? A—That stops me cold, mister. The stogie is yours. Who was it? Q—Has there ever been a woman player under contract to a team in organized baseball? The sergeant says there has, but he can't remember her name. A—Beatrice "Jackie" Mitchell, a pitcher, was in 1931 signed by the Chattanooga team of the Southern Ass'n . . . Q—Never mind who originated the ice cream soda. Tell us who originated the ice cream cone. I have to go out every night and get four of these—three for the youngsters and one for my wife. So I am interested. A—The ice cream cone was originated by Charles E. Menches at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904 . . . Q—You often quote prayers for children. How about some for adults? A—That's a reasonable request. Here is a touching and impressive little prayer by Violet Alleyn Story that you might say tonight:

God, pity broken little families,
Where there were three,
And now there are but two;
Where there were two,
And now there is but one.
Pray, comfort these as
Thou alone canst do.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—This intelligence would have made much more poignant reading, especially for dwellers in our haunt of humidity, last month and the month before, but I didn't learn it until now. Members of Britain's armed services assigned to Washington are granted an extra allowance for "tropical duty."

Sen. LaFollette

They get an additional 10 pounds to purchase raiment suitable for the tropics.

However, they have to pay for their gin slings and riding elephants out of their own pockets.

SENATE AND HOUSE pages are kept under pretty strict discipline. Every once in a while one of them plays hookey, but if they don't come through with what appears like a legitimate excuse, the official Capitol truant officer, Landon Mitchell, checks up. If they pull the stunt too often, they're fired.

The pages are given the privileges of the gymnasium in the new House Office Building, a privilege which is denied to the lady members of Congress. So there is no use trying to peep in the window—you won't see Clare Luce or Helen Gahagan Douglas doing handstands on the flying rings.

JACK HUTSON, Undersecretary of Agriculture, has been with the Department of Agriculture for 20 years. For a short time, however, he was loaned to Jimmy Byrnes.

He had been away from his desk at Agriculture for about a week when a letter arrived from a friend in Guatemala. It was returned to the sender marked "Address unknown."

SEN. ROBERT M. LaFOLLETTE, Jr., of Wisconsin has the peculiar distinction of being the only member of the Senate who is neither a Republican nor a Democrat.

For all practical purposes he is a party to himself. He is a Progressive.

"Young Bob," as he is still called, although he is past 50, inherited the party from his father, the late Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, whom he succeeded in the Senate. In fact, he was originally elected—back in September, 1925—to fill his father's unexpired term.

* * *

THE ONLY OTHER extra party man the Senate has had in recent years is Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota. But he got lonely from being the sole Farmer-Laborite and went back to being a Republican.

LaFollette leans strongly toward the Republicans. In fact, about the only difference is that the names of Republicans are listed in the Congressional Directory in italics while his is in small caps.

A SINISTER-LOOKING document in Japanese characters was picked up on a Jap battlefield after the enemy had been driven out. It resisted translation by experts on the field, so was rushed to G-2 in Washington.

The experts spent days over the paper. At first they thought it was some deep code. Finally, one, a little more prosaic than the rest, voiced the idea it might not be a war document at all.

He was proven right. But how the thing got onto a 1945 battlefield is still a mystery. It was a valedictorian address, given by a Japanese-American schoolgirl, Miss Kiyoko Takaesu, in Hawaii in June, 1938.

These are the stirring words delivered by Miss Takaesu:

"The fruits of many long months and years of effort are apparent today in this auspicious graduation, and this fact gives us heartfelt pleasure. On looking back we see that all of us have received guidance and encouragement ober the many years since we entered this school and have finally reached the point of graduation.

"But now we feel quite lonely at the thought that we must now draw further and further apart. The greater part of all who have reached graduation and are leaving school must shoulder important responsibilities, and must take an active part as members of the community.

"All of our futures certainly will not be easy going. I believe we shall have to cross all sorts of obstacles along our paths, and in such cases I hope that we shall always go on ahead, crushing through these obstacles enthusiastically with tenacity and fortitude."

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—Sitting in the Cub Room the other night, I looked around as the clock struck midnight, and it occurred to me that here, imprisoned in this long, narrow chattery rectangle at this moment was the so-hard-to-define, but so-easy-to-illustrate reason why the Stork Club is the Stork Club.

Joan Crawford

Why flying boys from Oklahoma who have never seen it name their bombers after it; why visiting matrons from Nashville plead to be taken to lunch there; why national magazines cry to give it millions of dollars' worth of free publicity; why stars breezing in from Hollywood rush to make their entrances in its mirrored doorway.

And why lads cutting their way through a New Guinea jungle—about as far removed as it is possible to be from caviar and chichi and chinchilla—build a shack in a clearing and triumphantly nail on its facade a sign that says "Stork Club."

Any Broadway columnist is asked dozens of times a season: "Why the Stork Club? Why not the Automat or Cafe Society Downtown or the Havana Madrid? People go to those places, too. Why do you write about the Stork Club all the time?"

An easy answer to that is, how can you help it?

Almost as simple is describing it as it was at the Cinderella hour the other night.

I CAN'T SLIP A CURB-BIT IN YOUR MOUTH TO HOLD YOU DOWN TO A TROT ON YOUR WAHOO AND BRAGGING,

On my right was Moss Hart, talking about the theater and Hollywood and getting to bed early and the marvelous memories of child actors who can memorize 30 and 40 "sides" at the age of six.

Crowding my left elbow was Billy Rose, in Navy blue serge and a bow tie, drinking lemonade and eating chicken Madras and commenting on the high cost of show costumes this year.

On his left was Eleanor Holm, drinking pineapple juice for a head cold and counting her sables.

Opposite me, a glittering blond statuette in emerald green sequins from shoulders to hem was Virginia Peine Reynolds, giggling because her false chignon was about to fall off.

An ice cube's throw away, Walter Winchell bent a radar ear to the conversation of Gov. McGrath, of Rhode Island, at a table of intent-looking stags.

Against the opposite wall, serious-eyed Jimmy Stewart relaxed, with a pretty belle—Gracie Amory, the golfer. And facing him, a gay pair found a great deal to laugh about—young multimillionaire nonbetting horse owner Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and lovely looking Jean Murray of society.

ALL AT ONCE there was a quieting of voices and a lifting of heads, and a young woman who was small but gave the impression of being tall made the best entrance of the night, and of the year. She wore a cyclamen pink and white hat, all ribbons and ostrich feathers and tremendous height and dish and glamor, and she seemed to be surrounded by men as she walked half the length of the room to a wall table.

It was Joan Crawford.

Eleanor Holm sighed, "She's my favorite actress," she said.

Ginny Peine nodded, "She's my favorite success story—chorus girl to star. I think she's terrific."

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 29—One reason "The Razor's Edge" was postponed until February is by that time 20th hopes Tyrone Power may be out of the Marines.

Tyrone Power

Naturally, Ty will be given a big buildup by Boss Darryl Zanuck when he is released—and the Somerset Maugham story is wonderful for him. I talked with Annabella, who says she expects Ty home by Christmas, but doesn't know when he will be released. He has been in the service three years and has more than enough points, so it should be soon.

Annabella says it is a miracle her mother is safe and with her. I know when Ty does get back 20th will put out the biggest, reddest carpet they can find because they want him for Louis D. Lighton's "Down to the Sea in Ships." Also, the best-selling "Captain From Castile" is another Power potentiality.

STEVE HANNEGAN, famed press agent and Ann Sheridan's heart, and Jack Warner were closeted for three hours. You know that only means one thing — Steve is talking about Annie's case. Warner's want Ann to do "The Man Who Died Twice." She has refused. Something very few people know—Ronald Colman is being sought for the lead opposite her. In the rough stage Ann didn't like the story but it was done over the radio and was terrific, so she will probably change her mind. Ann's complaint was she tried to see Jack and couldn't even get an appointment. But I think now that once they get together (since they like each other) all court proceedings will be called off. I, for one, would like to see Ann on the screen again.

WAS TALKING to Walt Disney about the screen snapshot movie we made for Ralph Staub at Columbia celebrating their 25th anniversary. Walt said he hadn't seen it, and neither have I, although I have had a lot of telephone calls from people who did when it was showing in Beverly Hills. But it isn't about our acting that I was most interested. It is about the book Walt has bought called "Morris, the Midget Moose." He tells me he is going to make a short and Morris will take his place with Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Dumbo, Bambi and the other Disney characters we love so much.

JOE STEELE, one of our best writers, called to tell me his privately printed book for kiddies, "Envi, the Stone Cutter," will soon be on the general bookstands, with Bennett Cerf publishing. Joe also gave me other book news. The new Jim Tully book, "Sister of the Lord," based on the life and evangelistical career of Aimee Semple McPherson, will soon be with us. Jim is a much better writer than his more recent books indicate, and something tells me he will be back in stride with the fantastic success story of "Sister" McPherson.

VERY INTERESTING to those of us who were friends of Rudolph Valentino to hear that Jean Acker, his first wife, is going on a personal appearance tour with Ted Rodriguez, the dancer. He was tested for the Valentino role by Edward Small. Rodriguez, who made a couple of shorts at Warners, will do impersonations of Rudy with Jean acting as narrator. If the tour turns out to be a success the job will be given to Rodriguez.

NOW THAT we all get an extra hour—what're we going to do with it? Bob Hope quipped "I know what Crosby will do. He'll spend the extra hour counting his money." Bing promptly denied this and said he would spend the time waiting for one of his horses to come in. The extra hour will mean to Bette Davis another 60 minutes to put in at Hollywood Canteen. Joan Caulfield, who has rushed from Broadway's "Kiss and Tell" to Hollywood's "Miss Susie Slagle," "Blue Skies" and now "Monsieur Beaucaire," says she will sleep the premium hour away in an attempt to catch up on her rest. It is also rumored three independents expect to use the extra hour making a feature picture.

BING CROSBY was ready to go into St. John's Hospital soon; Eleanor Powell and Glenn Ford hope to pass Christmas in Mexico; Faye Marlowe, one of our prettiest young actresses, has installed a movie theater in her home where she can see all her latest 20th Century-Fox movies; Benita has been teaching Morrie King of the "Dillinger" King brothers to skate, and from what I hear he has spent most of his time picking himself off the ice; Ginny Simms and her bridegroom have rented the Eddie Goulding house in Palm Springs and will spend all their week-ends there.

George Holland

Boston After Dark

EXCLUSIVE: Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt will be in Boston for the CIO dinner at Hotel Bradford, Oct. 15 . . . It will be Mrs. Roosevelt's first visit since the death of her husband . . . A famous hotel in Greater Boston was passed to its present owner for the sum of $1 . . . Part of the Harry Payne Whitney estate, the hotel changed hands when the will was probated and was handed to a Boston "management" firm when the executors agreed that that particular firm was qualified to live up to the terms of the will . . . A Boston realtor is bidding for the famous Monmouth Hotel in Spring Lake, N. J.—a $750,000 deal.

* * *

DOUGLAS DODSON, the unpublicized jockey with a fine reputation, is burning up the track in New York . . . Doug came to the Big Apple to ride Pot o'Luck to victory in the Realization Stakes last Saturday . . . On Wednesday, he shoved Attalee, Fermane and Atkinson into the background with a quadruple, three of the victories coming on the backs of long-priced horses . . . Mcflying and Gallant Agent both burned up a great deal of so-called "wise" money when they failed to finish first at Gansett Thursday.

* * *

IT MAY BE propaganda, but rivals insist that the Lawrence Academy football team which will be fielded this season numbers a large group of ex-service men . . . The academy maintains that only the coach is a veteran . . . Perhaps we will be able to scan the roster of the team, and the histories of the players . . . Watch Leo Elson of Everett on the Harvard Jayvees this fall . . . Leo was shot down on his 34th mission over Europe in a bomber . . . He escaped by bailing out, and was not injured . . . (The Everett lad played freshman ball at Harvard before he went in service.)

* * *

NORMAN BROKENSHIRE, the veteran radio announcer who broke in in Boston, is the announcer on the Theater Guild's new Sunday night radio series . . . It marks a strong comeback by Mr. B.

* * *

A LOVELY NEW (to us) song named "Symphonie," written by one Al Stone or Alstone, who is said to be a Frenchman, is being played by George Trudeau and his fine little band at the Skyline Restaurant of the City Club . . . The number seems to be missing about the Boston music centers . . . It is so hauntingly beautiful that the tune must become a hit . . . For that matter, it may already be very popular, as we are not as hep to the hit parade tunes these days as we were when radio listening was mostly music, and therefore filled with pleasure . . . If the song isn't an American publication (Maestro Trudeau plays it from an arrangement he made himself from a lead sheet), some publishing firm can make a fortune with the American rights, we believe.

* * *

SOPHIE TUCKER was giving an insight into the workings of one bit of radio sponsorship at Ruby Foo's Den (where Sophie has been having an early morning goodnight snack since she opened her record-breaking stand at the Mayfair) . . . It seems that a prominent manufacturer who sponsors the Andrews Sisters' show wanted Miss Tucker to appear as a guest artist.

* * *

BUT SOPHIE'S standard rate (of $2000 for so-called guest shots) was too much for the sponsor to pay, he said . . . So the sponsor compromised . . . He offered a new automobile, a deep freeze apparatus and an electric stove and a new refrigerator as rewards for Sophie's one appearance . . . As the value of this merchandise considerably exceeded the fee demanded by Sophie (and at wholesale prices), Miss Tucker was pleased to accept on behalf of herself and family . . . She will give the automobile to her son and use the other appliances in the furnishing of an apartment in New York . . . Sophie, by the way, has been made an honorary member of the Catholic Actors' Guild.

Tanks and Guns For Public Relics

WASHINGTON, Sept 29 (INS)—The War Department has authorized immediate donation of surplus Army tanks and guns to American towns, organizations and museums.

An estimated 4000 field artillery items valued at $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 are involved.

Requests will be handled under a "first come, first served" policy.

Scrap Paper Album, or, Trivia From the Past

By AUSTEN LAKE

THIS IS THE VIRGINAL, forward looking period of the season when I police my desk of paper rubbish collected through the months. Most of it, jotted as memoranda, is unintelligible now, unrelated bits of marginalia pencilled on the backs of hotel bills, travel orders and army trivia.

Austen Lake

Here's a scrawl on the flap of a Third Army press release reading, "Col C 20. 1-5-45." A telephone number? Col C? Would that be Colonel Harold Cohen? . . . O yes! The soft-spoken tiger-man of the 10th Armored Infantry Batt'n. We'd slept on the floor in a Kraut barracks in the burning town of Dornberg, Central Germany, and he'd asked wearily what my guess on the end of the war might be. And I'd said "May 1," at which he'd snorted scoffingly and offered to bet me $20. I owe him a double sawbuck.

His voice had come like a disembodied spirit in the fitful dark of the room, lit rosily by surrounding fires. He didn't relish returning to the prosaic business of making shirts in his Spartansburg factory and thought maybe it might soothe his restless spirit to find some good woman and settle down to family life. "Only," he murmured, "Where'll I find me that good woman and how'll I know when I've got one?" I couldn't answer that and had fallen asleep to the ear-shattering noise of our artillery.

Here's That Good Woman, Colonel!

HERE'S A JOTTING ON A MESS receipt for 1800 francs, "Lt. Lois Smith—eggs—Azores." That's easy! A perky flight nurse in trim uniform-trousers had been medical chaperone to 16 ambulatory cases on the first leg of our transocean trip from Orly Field, Paris, to LaGuardia, New York. She was an angelic dispenser of cheer and gentleness with those mutilated ghastlies, who were minus arms or legs or blind.

We had unloaded for an hour at the Azores where the patients were carried to a Red Cross hostel and fed scrambled eggs and bacon. And Lt. Lois had fed a lad whose arms were both amputated, administering as a mother spoons food into the mouth of a high-chair infant. There's one "good woman," Colonel! Her home address is 208 Orange st., Lafayette, La.

A Paris P-X purchase slip and the scribble, "Danton 82-52." Did I telephone and for what purpose? And an Army finance credit and the notation "74 Cherche Midi." That brings back cordial Dr. and Mrs. DeVaux. He was a quiet little specialist in pediatrics and leader in the French underground whom I met the day Paris was captured. We had gone to the Chambre des Deputes and watched the last Kraut stronghold of 800 surrender meekly. And as we walked back through the Avenue St. Germain a band of French guerrillas were herding several female collaborationists in scanty nether garments and prodding them savagely with pistols. DeVaux said sadly, "Now the witch hunt begins."

Here's a tattered half page of typed copy which begins, "Let this be a lesson to me. Never again will I drive beyond our battlelines until they install stop and go traffic lights." That was the day on Sept. 5, 1944, when John Prince of the London Times and I were jeeping along at a smart clip beyond Verdun. A few refugee bicyclists passed us, but little else and we rollicked along blissfully oblivious 'til we came to a full-sized French village where the people stood at a cautious distance as though we had the measles.

A pair of American soldiers in dun-colored jumpers had come over the rise and approached with wondering stares. "How far are we from our lines" we asked, and they looked at each other and laughed. "About 10 miles back where you came from," said the taller of the two. "Our 'recon' patrols are just beyond this town." We, benighted goops, were on our way to Metz, which the Third didn't capture for three more months.

AND A LOST ENGLISH BAGGAGE check on the way from London to Newbury. The scenery had crawled past with frequent stops while the asthmatic little engine recovered its puff before giving a shrill yelp and starting off with a clatter that seemed to say: "F'r king'n' country . . . f'r king'n' country." By easy stages we gained the required yardage to bring me to my goal, where I stored my luggage in the station "parcel office" and telephoned the 101st Airborne Division, please, to take me off the town. Only when I came to collect my baggage I couldn't find the stub and the grizzled old Limey station master wouldn't give me my bed roll, haversack and typewriter till the Division G-2 wrote him a military order.

And scrap of German Schutzstaffle warning to U. S. prisoners, and the note "Strawberries, Stickney, East Dixfield, Me." It had been the evening before we captured Mainz and my jeep driver, Slim Usher, and I hadn't swallowed anything but clouds of dust since morning. So we stopped on the edge of a village hopeful of finding a bucket of pump water to make mudpies in our ears.

Instead, we ran into a supper of fried smoked-ham, four fresh eggs apiece and a dessert of preserved strawberries and condensed cream—no kidding! The ham-and-eggs was fried by forage-wise PFC Guy O. Stickney of East Dixfield, Me. (who had just given himself a sponge bath in the cottage parlor). The strawberries were bottled in pink syrup and were procured . . . Well, we didn't ask questions. Maybe Guy bottled them himself. But it made a grateful interlude, for we holed up by candlelight for the night, stood our socks in the corner and rolled up in blankets. Sleep comes at such times like being hit on the head with a beer mallet.

And so on and so forth. Phantoms on scrap paper that belong to the rubbish of the past. Who knows, a year hence there may be others, like "Get Rocket-ship to Dublin," or "Conn floors Louis, left hook in 8th makes him champ." Who knows?

H. C., 13; Dartmouth, 6 At End of First Half

By PETE McGRATH

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 29—Scattered showers and a soggy gridiron greeted the Holy Cross Crusaders and the Dartmouth Indians as they clashed in Memorial Stadium before 12,000 spectators in the seasonal opener for both teams.

Holy Cross was rated the pregame favorite mainly because of the presence in the line-up of Capt. Stan Koslowski, "the atomic blond," the crack triple threat who was eastern high scorer two years ago. Otherwise both teams were inexperienced and untested.

FIRST PERIOD

Holy Cross won the toss and Dartmouth kicked off. Alexander kicked into the end zone and Holy Cross took the ball on the 20-yard line. Koslowski made five and a penalty gave the Cross first down. Byers picked up six on a reverse. Koslowski and Kissell carried to the 47 and another offside put the Crusaders in Dartmouth territory.

Byers swung left end for six and Koslowski ripped right tackle for seven. Byers reversed for six, Koslowski picked up four in two rushes and Kissell smashed through center for seven. Koslowski got two and Byers made it first down on the Dartmouth 14.

Koslowski made a yard in two tries and a Byers-Koslowski pass failed. Koslowski's placement was blocked by Harvey and Rusch recovered for Dartmouth on the Green 17-yard line. Swenson fumbled on the first play and Conway recovered for Holy Cross on the Dartmouth 19.

Byers picked up a yard on a reverse. Two passes failed and Koslowski's field goal attempt failed. Dartmouth took the ball and Swanson again fumbled on the first play with Dieckleman recovering for Holy Cross on the Green 24. Koslowski made six, two and then got first down on the Dartmouth 13 as the period ended.

Score at the end of the first period, Holy Cross 0, Dartmouth 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Kissell spurted through center for seven. Kissell hit center for another yard. Byers swung left on a reverse for a touchdown. Koslowski kicked the point.

Score: Holy Cross 7, Dartmouth 0.

Albrecht took Koslowski's kickoff on the Dartmouth 5 and ran it to the 43. Albrecht made two in two rushes and Frost raked right end to the Holy Cross 47. Dartmouth was penalized five.

Kissell seized Frost's blocked kick at midfield and scurried to the Dartmouth 20. Koslowski raced right end for 7. Byers swung left end for 2. Kissell roared up the middle to the Dartmouth 5 yard line.

Koslowski was stopped on the 1 yard line and then inches from the goal. Kissell bucked across for a touchdown. Koslowski missed the point.

Score Holy Cross 13: Dartmouth 0:

Frost ran Koslowski's kickoff to the Dartmouth 42. Two rushes lost a yard before Albrecht passed to Stevens for six. Frost kicked to Byers on the Holy Cross 21. Holy Cross was panelized 15 yards for holding. Dartmouth lost five for being offside. Frost returned Koslowski's kick 15 yards to the Holy Cross 40. Albrecht passed to Rusch on the Purple 14. Frost made four on a Statue of Liberty play. Rusch carried to the five on an end around. Frost passed to Gould for a touchdown. Fromson missed the point.

Score: Holy Cross 13, Dartmouth 6.

Sicuranza grabbed Alexander's short kickoff on the Holy Cross 45 and brought it to the 49. Koslowski made six and Byers lost four as the half ended.

Score at the end of the first half: Holy Cross 13, Dartmouth 6.

B. C. Battles Squantum

By MURRAY KRAMER

ALUMNI FIELD, Sept. 29—Before a sweltering gathering of some 5000 fans, Boston College opened its 1945 football season under summer weather conditions with the Squantum Naval Air Base furnishing the opposition.

This was the first time that the Middies have been represented on the gridiron and very little was known about their potential strength prior to the kickoff.

FIRST PERIOD

Boston College fumbled the opening kickoff and Squantum stepped into control on the Eagles' 30, but outside of an eight-yard Elser to Strawn back, the Middies couldn't move.

Shortly after Elser fumbled on his 30 to even matters but the Maroon and Gold went nowhere in a hurry.

Toward the close of the period, a partially blocked boot gave B. C. the ball on the Navy 40. The Sarnomen missed a first down by inches after serving "T" four times and Navy took over. Elser booted to the B. C. 28 as the quarter ended.

Score: B. C. 0, Squantum 0.

Colgate Eleven Engages Rochester

HAMILTON, N. Y., Sept. 29 (AP)—Colgate opened its 1945 football season today against the University of Rochester, a team that already has won two of three games, beating Case and Baldwin-Wallace while losing to Oberlin.

Cubs Conquer To Cinch Flag

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Hank Borowy, the right hander who was bought in midseason as pennant insurance, was given the honor of trying to clinch the National League flag as starting Cubs pitcher in the first game of a double-header with the Pirates.

Opposing the ex-New York Yankee, who has won ten against two losses since joining the Cubs, was lefty Fritz Ostermueller who has won five and lost three for the campaign. The Cubs needed one game to sew up the flag.

The Cubs won 4-3 to become National League champions.

Yale, 12; Tufts, 7 At First Half

By JOE CASHMAN

YALE BOWL, NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29—It was 80 in the shade, of which there was none down on the playing field, as Yale opened its 1945 football season in its first game with Tufts since 1919.

Coach Howie O'Dell's Boys in Blue, undefeated since 1943, were heavy favorites to beat the Jumbos as they pleased.

But the men from Medford had a vivid recollection of their surprise victory over Coast Guard Academy last week and had hopes of providing another big upset.

A crowd estimated at 15,000 was lost in the vast crater which is the Bull-Dog kennel.

FIRST PERIOD

Tufts won toss and elected to kick off with Gale booting to Scannell who was downed on his 35. An exchange of punts found the ball on the same Yale 35. A Dakos-to-Penn pass gave Yale first down on Tufts 38.

Scannell found a hole and romped to the 22. Bill Penn plunged to the seven before Hartman stopped him. Scannell fumbled and McNeil recovered for Tufts on the seven. McNeil's punt rolled dead on the Tufts 38.

Gher went through tackle for 10. Scannell picked up on an end sweep. Kirk replaced Penn in the Yale backfield. Kirk sprinted up to the seventh. Gher went down to the two. Gher was stopped on the goal line. Kirk bucked over for the touchdown. Fusilli's conversion try was blocked by Hartman. Score Yale 6, Tufts 0.

After Irwin caught the kick-off on his 30, Feldman went 11 yards for Tufts first down as the period ended.

Score, Yale 6, Tufts 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Three more rushes left Tufts inches short on first down on the Yale 49 and the Jumboes gambled and won. Irwin picked up two yards from punt formation. A sensational pass, catch and run by Barnhart gave Tufts a touchdown. Feldman threw the ball and Barnhart took it out of the arms of Yale's Scannell on the Yale 30 and romped unmolested to the score. Irwin converted.

Score, Tufts 7, Yale 6.

Penn took the Tufts kickoff by Rohres and raced back to his 40. Irwin broke through to nail Dalley for a three-yard loss. A Dakos-to-Penn pass gave the Elis first down on the Tufts 29. Dalley picked up six. A Kirk fumble was recovered by Gale on the Tufts 16 for the Jumboes.

Beers punted to Kirk on the Tufts 46. Yale was penalized five yards. Yale went into a spread and Dalley gained eight. A Dakos-to-Penn pass was good for first down on the Tufts 30. Moving back to pass, Dakos was smothered for a five-yard loss. The Tufts wall broke through again to nail Penn for a three-yard loss. Dalley couldn't gain and Yale passed on fourth down, 19 to go. It was good, Dakos to Penn, but was short of first down. Tufts taking over on its 23.

On a reverse, Feldman scampered all the way to his 43. A Tufts pass failed. Irwin fumbled and Lilley recovered for Yale on the Tufts 36. Kirk went 13 yards on a tackle thrust. Dalley fumbled but recovered on the Tufts 8. Dalley fumbled again but again Yale recovered on the 14. A pass, Dakos to Kirk, gave Yale a touchdown with the receiver catching in the end zone. The conversion failed.

Score Yale 12, Tufts 7.

Following the touchdown, Tufts took to the air and Gher intercepted a Feldman pass on the Tufts 48 as rain began to fall. Dakos, on quarterback sneak, went to the Tufts 33 for first down and Dakos passed to Kirk to the 16. A repeat of the pass put the ball to the Tufts 1 and the half ended.

Score Yale 12, Tufts 7.

Irish Tackle Veteran Illini

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Sept. 29 (INS)—Notre Dame and Illinois clashed today before approximately 40,000 fans in the opener of the 57th football season for the Irish.

Playing its first game under Coach Hugh Devore without the services of Frank Szymanski and Marty Wendell, Notre Dame took the field in an unfamiliar underdog role against the Illini, who moved into the fray with 10 veterans from last year's squad.

Illinois, which lost 13 to 7 to the Irish last year after leading for 49 minutes, was seeking not only revenge for that defeat, but its first football victory over Notre Dame as well.

KASONOVIC CAPTAIN

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 29 (AP)—Center Bronco Kasonovic was named captain of Penn State's football team in its opening game today against Muhlenberg.

Malden Gets 2 Touchdowns

By MIKE GILLOOLY

WALTHAM — Malden High School's football team, a 13-0 winner over Waltham last year, was accorded the same exact edge in the annual clash between the two teams here.

FIRST PERIOD

Malden fumbled the kickoff, but recovered to rip off two quick first downs to the 41 before John Sweeney recovered a fumble to give Waltham the ball. Three passes and a rush picked up nothing as Malden took over on the 33. Dan Marangiello and John Carroll ripped off first downs to the Waltham 7. There Capt. Ernie Zeno recovered a Malden fumble. Dick Stumpf turned an end to the 22 and then he combined with Zeno for another first down to the 33.

Score: Waltham 0, Malden 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Waltham's attack stalled and Zeno's kick, caught in the wind, carried only to the 37 yard line. Carroll and Morelli ripped off a first down to the 24. Marangiello snapped through center to the four and then went over on first play as a cloudburst covered the field. Sicarello rushed into the line-up to convert. Another short Zeno kick set Malden up again on the 45. Two first downs carried to the 24. Three shots lost two yards so Carroll flipped a five-yard pass on a screen play to De Vincent who sailed over behind six interferers.

Score—Malden 13; Waltham 0

Everett Scores In First Minute

By ARTHUR SULLIVAN

EVERETT, STADIUM—Everett High made its 1945 football debut against Somerville before a shirt-sleeved crowd of more than 7000 fans. Everett, despite the fact that it was an opening game, entered the game a pregame favorite to whip the once beaten Somerville team.

FIRST QUARTER

Everett High struck like the storm, to get a touchdown a minute after the game started.

Everett kicked to Somerville and Frank Ryan received on the 15 and got up to the 30 before he was stopped.

On the first play from scrimmage Somerville fumbled and the Everett and Armando Mazzone fell on the ball on the 25-yard line.

Fran Merenda and Sam D'Agostino took turnsn carrying to bring the ball to the 2-yard line. From this spot DAgostino smashed over. Coggin failed to dropkick the point.

Score—Everett 6, Somerville 0.

SECOND PERIOD

An intercepted pass by Tony Mazzone, Everett's right tackle paved the way for Everett's second touchdown.

Frank Ryan attempted to pass from his own 25, but Mazzone grabbed the wobbling ball as the first period ended.

Sam D'Agostino and Fran Merenda again teamed up to crack off a first down on the Somerville 12.

Coggio, Merenda and D'Agostino could only gain a couple of yards in three trys. Then Sam the touchdown man battled through center on fourth down.

Eddie Somerford dashed in the game and rushed the point. This ended the scoring.

Score—Everett 13, Somerville 0.

North Shore Elevens Steal Grid Iron Show

By MIKE GILLOOLY

There's no need to accentuate the positive class of competition that will be headlining the schoolboy football program tomorrow afternoon with the North Shore—home of the persistent "Sunday" outlaws—grabbing the lion's share of the spotlight.

Capacity crowds, depending on the weather, will be storming Chelsea Memorial Stadium and Bertram Field for the Revere-Chelsea and the Lynn English-Salem contests.

Both tilts will probably be decided by the slimmest of margins. All teams involved will be moving into these tests with undefeated records at stake. And it's quite possible that the winners will wind up as class champions—providing, of course, that you favor Salem's Witches over English for the A crown and either of the other two outfits in the B race.

Salem, in spite of its severe losses from that Miami Special team of last fall, has come along swiftly and neatly under the guidance of Coach Glenn O'Brien. The Witches trounced Lowell (21-0) in its opener on a nifty end-around play and then continued in double figures (19-0) against Newburyport. These two were mere tune-ups in comparison to the work-out looming against English.

Coach O'Brien has added a nifty offensive thrust with end Bert Raby and a swell passing attack centering on Bob Shea, Bob Jalbert and Don Poitras.

Coach Nick Morris at English has a great defensive outfit in a veteran, experienced line. The offense depends on co-captain Bob Bolger and if he's having one of his big days, Salem will be in plenty of trouble. For the middle of that Lynn line—guards Ruby Jules, Jake Jacovitz, co-captain, and center Herb Smallwood—just refuses to back up.

At Memorial Stadium, Coach Gigi Kenneally will be leading another clever Revere team against defending B titlist, Chelsea. Coach Kenneally has the reputation among coaches of being the fellow who, "when the impossible is done on the gridiron, he's the one to do it." Maybe he can have backs Mike Casoli and Jerry Sarno up to their Lawrence (26-12) victory pace.

Chelsea proved a very versatile team against Somerville. It had a great running attack, spearheaded by the crashing Mike Opolka, and a smart defensive outfit, led by Ronnie Linehan. Coach Henry McCarthy has the Red Devils rolling and they may stay up there.

And don't overlook that Peabody-Lowell clash. The Class A champion Tanners have edged their way through two games. Lowell, has bobbled the same amount and Coach Herb Cochrane is hungry for victory. Lowell is better than its losses indicate, as a matter of fact Coach Bill Seeglitz is just praying that it doesn't pick this game in which to explode in the face of his 'rookie' team.

Meanwhile, the Catholic Leaguers will get rolling. Coach Jack McCarthy's Cathedral outfit will square off against Central Catholic of Lawrence; St. Charles will travel to Immaculate Conception of Revere; Mission will be at St. Mary's of Waltham. And out of state, Mark Devlin's Lawrence eleven will try to get rolling at Manchester Central.

Eagan to Probe N. Y. Ring Row

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (INS)—Lt. Col. Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York State Boxing Commission, today promised a "complete review" of the near-riot which followed last night's Rocky Graziano-Harold Green fight at Madison Square Garden.

Green, knocked out by his middleweight opponent in 1:49 of the third round, sprang to his feet following the count and attempted to get at Graziano and go on with the fight.

The ensuing melee brought judges, handlers, policemen and even spectators into a wild slugfest in the middle of the ring. It took five full minutes to quell the uprising.

Green is liable to suspension for his unusual conduct.

Ottawa Man Heads Ducks Unlimited

SASKATOON, Sask., Sept. 29 (AP)—S. H. Holden, Ottawa, was elected president of Ducks Unlimited, a sportsmen's organization, at its annual convention held here yesterday with officials present from all parts of Canada and the United States.

Among the directors elected were A. C. Glassel, Shreveport, La., and Glenn L. Martin, Baltimore, Md.

Sal Bartolo Easy Winner

Sweeping all but one round, Sal Bartolo, 130 3-4, East Boston, coasted to an easy victory over Maxie Shapiro, 133 1-2, Brooklyn, in the feature 10-round bout of the Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden last night before 6,397 fans who paid a gross of $14,198 and a net of $9983.

The latter's best round was the 10th, when, with only seconds remaining, he tagged Bartolo with a left hook to the jaw that hurt the Noddle Islander and forced him to hang on to the finish.

In the semi-final, John Pretzie, 192, Watertown, knocked out Bill Bell, 184, Chicago, in 2:20 of the first round. Pretzie hopped on top of his colored opponent and dropped him for a nine count. Bell got up but walked into a left hook that put him down for good.

Ken Conley, 152, South Boston, fought hard with a badly cut left eye to win a unanimous verdict over Jim Pettie, 152, Woburn.

Dave Andrews, 142½, Lowell, settled Eddie Petrone, 147, Philadelphia for keeps in 2:57 on the opening round of a scheduled six. Petrone took nine and then was dropped. He was carried to his corner.

The opening six went to Al Smith, 132, Newark, who took the vote of referee Tommy Rawson, Jr. and judges Eddie Curley, and Tom McNeeley over Vinnie Vazzo, 133¾, of Revere.

Yanks, Eagles In Exhibition

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP) — One of the choicest dishes on the pro football menu—the Chicago Bears vs. the Green Bay Packers—is on Sunday's bill of fare as the National League gradually moves into its twenty-fifth annual campaign.

The contest at Green Bay, Wis., shares billing and league importance with the Chicago Cardinal visit to Cleveland.

The two games are the only full-fledged league frays on Sunday's schedule although the Washington Redskins and Detroit are busy in an exhibition at Baltimore and the New York Giants take on Camp Lee, Va., at Newark. Tonight the Philadelphia Eagles and the Boston Yanks are rivals under the lights at Bethlehem, Pa., in an exhibition.
